

REINTRODUCING THE “HENRY THE STEINWAY” SERIES OF BOOKS!

NOW AVAILABLE!

Henry the Steinway and the Piano Recital

By Sally Coveleskie & Peter Goodrich
Illustrated by Laura Friedman

32 pages, 12” x 9” Hardcover
ISBN: 978-1-62277-508-8
G-10342 U.S. $17.95

GIA Publications, Inc. brings Henry the Steinway to a new generation of young musicians with the reprinting of this classic series of children's books.

In Henry the Steinway and the Piano Recital, young Ana struggles to prepare for her spring piano recital at Steinway Hall until she receives the inspiration she needs from Henry, her Steinway grand piano. With Henry's help, Ana not only learns the notes, but begins to feel the magic of music within her heart.

giamusic.com/henry

"A charming account of an ageless story, the bond of friendship between pianists of all ages and their pianos."

Dr. Robert Blocker, Dean, Yale School of Music

"Henry the Steinway is a wonderful book. It teaches kids about practice, concentration, and fortitude. Where can I find a piano like Henry?"

Wynton Marsalis

"For all who understand the diligence required to master an instrument, these books will delight and inspire. They shall remain in my home by the piano for my children as a respite from those frustrating moments at practice, and as a reminder to me of the great skills passed on to me by my dedicated teachers."

Renée Fleming

"Henry the Steinway is a wonderful series of books about your best friend who is always by your side. I concertize in every corner of the globe and have been called a citizen of the world. Wherever I go I can depend on Henry the Steinway to be there with me. Teachers, children and parents will delight in this gentle story of making beautiful music, never giving up and becoming the best you can be."

Lang Lang

